

Maryam Noor

Communications and Media Relations Specialist

Maryam Noor is a communications and media relations specialist at the Georgetown University Center on Education and the Workforce (CEW). In her role, Maryam produces outward-facing communications materials for CEW and liaises with reporters and editors to secure media coverage for the center's research.

Before joining the CEW team, Maryam gained work experience in nonprofit and career-connected learning settings in Seattle, Washington. She also previously freelanced as a journalist.

Maryam graduated from the University of Washington, Seattle, in 2021 with a dual bachelor's degree in journalism with honors and economics. She received her MPA from the Daniel J. Evans School of Public Policy and Governance in 2023.